

What is a Population?

The total number of people living in a defined location at a particular point in time

What is a Population?

We tend to define population in terms of its structure

